THE HISTORY OF DEMOCRACY TIME LINE GAME

WOODEN TEETH & JELLY BEANS
Beyond Words Publishing
CHECK IT OUT!

Stand up and salute, young Americans! It's darned near election time, and that means red, white, and blue. It means ticker tape, baby kissing, and flags galore. But our glorious election process wasn't built in a day—democracy was a long time coming. Go through the magazine and look for the FOX Fox illustrating a moment in history—then go to page 35 to put them in order.

INSIDE the FOX KIDS BIZ

So, I suppose you noticed the new logo on the cover of the magazine. Pretty nifty, eh? You've probably seen it on TV, too. We talked to lots of kids and asked them what we could do to look more hip and fun. With the new brighter colors, and the fun design, we think we've got a winner. What do you think? Do you like the colors and the swirls? How about the designs that we like to call sizzle and bacon? Let me know what you think! It's never the same old thing at FOX KIDS!

TICK TALK™

You know what time it is, don't you, kids! It's Tick Talk time! Here are some of my favorites from my "Scrapbook of Enigma," where your young minds thirst for the fruit of my knowledge. Well...drink up, chums!

Dear Tick,
Why do you chew gum?

Preston Petro,
age 8
FOX 22 Kids Club
Carlisle, PA

Dear Preston,
Mindless mastication makes mad men merry! Music may calm the savage beast, but chewing gum is a mouthful of minty goodness!

Dear Tick,
Why does your head hurt when you eat ice cream too fast?

Chris Smith,
age 13
WHNS FOX 21
Kids Club
Greenville, SC

Dear Chris, Ahh, ice cream, the forbidden fruit. Of course, it's not a fruit per se. No, and it isn't actually forbidden...but it is creamy. And if you're lucky, it's nutty, too! Say it with me, Chris... SPOON!

Dear Tick,
What color is a mirror?

Jesse Mazur,
age 10
WBNX FOX 55
Kids Club
Strongsville, OH

Dear Jesse,
A mirror is like life, Jesse. Its color and beauty are in the eye of the beholder. And from where I'm beholding, it's blue. Very, very blue. Of course, you can't break life and wind up with seven years' bad luck, now can you?

Dear Tick,
Airplanes weigh over 10 tons, so how do they fly?

Paul Jeffries,
age 10
KDSM FOX 17
Kids Club
Des Moines, IA

Dear Paul,
Swiftly! They soar through the air like giant, shiny flying tube things, carrying people and their stuff hither and yon. Aviation...you gotta love it!

★ William McKinley kept a pet parrot that could whistle "Yankee Doodle."

Dear Tick,
What kind of a Tick are you?

Lauren Mansfield,
age 11
KSMO FOX 62
Kids Club
Peculiar, MO

Dear Lauren, I am a mighty Tick and a just Tick. A Tick who likes the breath of a puppy and the taste of pistachio. I am The Tick, defender of The City!

Dear Tick,
How many times does your heart beat in an average life?

Gabrielle Fiore,
age 7 1/2
KVHP FOX
Kids Club
Lake Charles, LA

Dear Gabrielle,
Do not ask how many, Gabrielle, ask how strong! Strength of heart, of character, of love! That's what this whole thing is about, Gabrielle, this crazy thing called life!

GLUE

Well, somebody didn't eat HER Wheaties...

KIDS WHO RULED THE McWORLD®

4 REASONS WHY KIDS SHOULD RULE THE WORLD!

- When the little green Martians land in your backyard and say "Take me to your leader," you can take them to someone their own height.
- A kid ruler wouldn't take time off to golf.
- We'd love to see "Skateboard One."
- Washington, D.C., would make a great theme park!

Did you know that a bunch of kids throughout history have actually been "Grand Pooh Bah," the "Head Honcho," or the "Queen of Everything"? Who are these pint-sized politicians? Glad you asked....

CHENG
ruled 246–210 B.C.

Emperors can do whatever they want! "Cheng" changed his name to "Ch'in Shih Huang Ti"—but why? Ch'in Shih... (oh, you know) became ruler at 12 years old, and in 36 years he standardized Chinese writing, built the Great Wall (not alone), and constructed a network of roads throughout China.

KING TUT
ruled 1361–1352 B.C.

Tutankhamen ruled Egypt at 9 years old! He was such a good pharaoh that when he died he was buried in a solid gold coffin, with a ton of great food and cool games and enough treasure to fill up your house—and the house of everybody you know. What did he do to make his mummy so proud? Hey, how much gold did you have when you were 9?

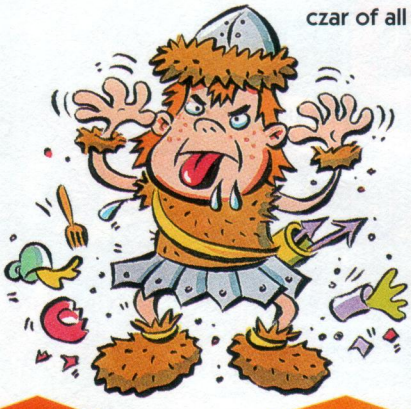
FREDERICK II
ruled 1197–1250

Little Freddy Hohenstaufen was king of Germany at 2, king of Italy at 4, and Holy Roman Emperor at 16. A brilliant ruler, he created a civil service, built the University of Naples, spoke several languages, liked poetry and sculpture, and wrote a book on falcons that is still used today. They called him "Stupor Mundi," which means "Amazement of the World." Think what he could have accomplished with an earlier start!

MARY Queen of Scots
ruled 1542–1567

Mary was only a few days old when she was crowned queen of Scotland. Years later, some Englishmen thought Mary should be queen of England, too. So, her cousin, Queen Elizabeth (of England), had her imprisoned for 19 years and beheaded at the age of 45. Yuck! But Mary got the last laugh (not easy without a head), when her son became King James I of England.

IVAN the Terrible
ruled 1533–1584

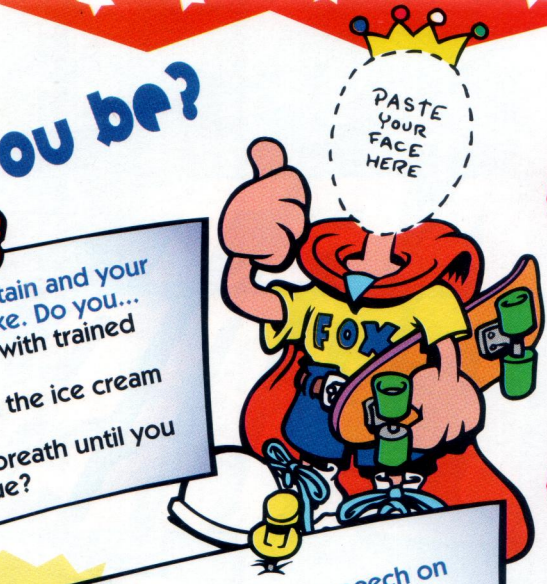


It's true. Ivan the Terrible was a mean kid. At 13 he became the czar of all the Russias...and ordered his first of three thousand executions. Not the kind of guy you want to mess with at recess. But Ivan did create a new legal code, improved conditions in the Russian military, funded the arts, and tried to play nice with western Europe.

What kind of ruler would you be?

This is a test...this is only a test.

This is a test of the emergency leadership system. If you were actually called upon to be leader of your state/country/planet, you would be informed where to board your limo. These quickie quizzes determine your leadership potential. Are you a magnificent monarch, a boring bureaucrat, or a terrible tyrant? Please stand by...



1. You're team captain and your players go on strike. Do you...
A) Replace them with trained monkeys?
B) Give them all the ice cream they can eat?
C) Hold your breath until you turn blue?

2. As class president you want to change a rule that everyone else likes. Do you...
A) Laugh maniacally?
B) Do what the students want?
C) Dress in a clown outfit and sing show tunes?
D) Other?

3. You're club president and you need to raise funds. Do you...
A) Print money?
B) Cut spending and raise dues?
C) Play your music real loud?
D) All of the above?

4. You have to give a speech on FOX KIDS TV. Would you wear...
A) A red-white-and-blue suit?
B) Your "Wolverine" Halloween costume?
C) A towel?

5. Your country is under attack by aliens. Do you...
A) Try to talk them into peaceful coexistence?
B) Challenge them to a beach volleyball game?
C) Hire super heroes to kick some alien tail?

MODERN-DAY LEADERS

There are fewer kings and queens around these days, and chances of becoming pharaoh at age 9 are pretty slim. But that doesn't mean there aren't kid leaders.

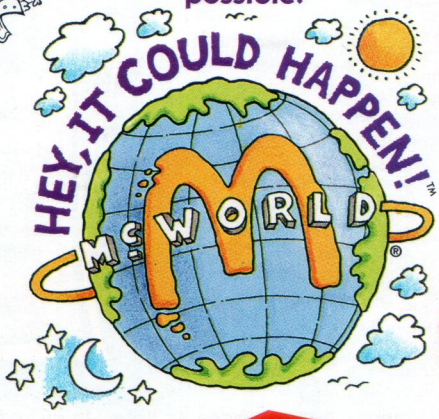
Gregory Miller

Gregory Miller is 11 years old, and he's already a product marketing consultant for Claris Corporation, a leading software company. He got the job after writing a proposal stressing how important a kid's point of view could be in future product development. He is also the president of Tenadar Software, a company that he co-founded with eight of his friends.

You want to rule the world? You'll need a humongous tape measure—it's big. All seriousness aside, kids like Gregory and Mary didn't start out as corporate V.P.'s. They probably started as class presidents or team captains. The trick is to find something you enjoy and go for it! After that, anything is possible!

Mary Rodas

Mary Rodas started out as a toy tester for the Catco Toy Co. She was so good at it, that by age 14 she was the youngest corporate vice-president in America. Better than being Queen of Everything! Mary helped develop the Balzac Balloon Ball, and was the first person under 18 years old ever to be admitted to the Toy Fair.

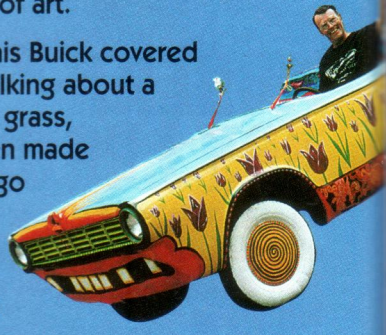


ART CARS

Yo! Robin here, polishing the Batmobile. The first time I saw this car, I thought it was pretty wild. But some people, with names like some of our super villains, make cars that outweird the Batmobile, any day. They're called art cars, because these people turn their cars into outrageous works of art.

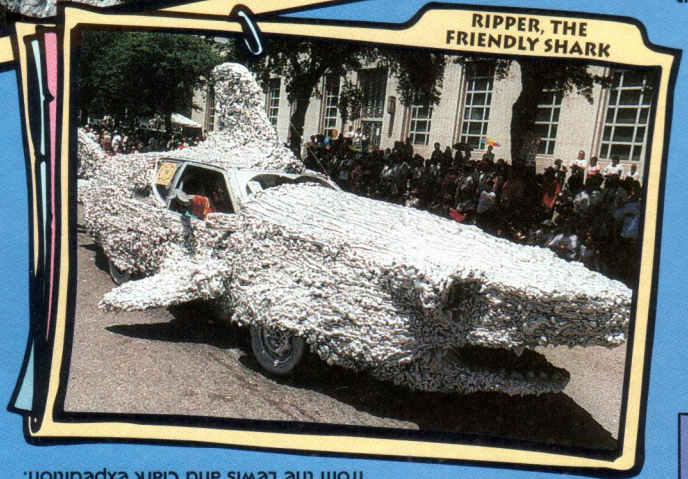
Ride with Batman & Robin weekday afternoons on FOX KIDS!

Meet Gene Pool and his Buick covered with seeds. We're talking about a car that sprouts grass, here. Gene even made a grass suit to go with the car. And people think my outfit's weird!



Dot Comma named her rig Squeaky Clean, The Suds Machine. She covered a Plymouth with foam padding that looks like bubbles and installed a kid's swimming pool. But no diving on the freeway!

One of my favorites has to be Ripper, the Friendly Shark! I'll bet no one could guess that this was once a 1982 Nissan Sentra. Sure, the Batmobile has fins, but this is ridiculous!



You can see art car shows in Houston, St. Louis, Minneapolis, and Baltimore, but not in Gotham City. I'll talk to Mayor Hill about that. I'd like to see the wild art cars The Joker or The Penguin would enter!

So, about now you're wishing you could create your own art on wheels, right? So what's stopping you? Get your bike, wagon, or skateboard out of the garage and with your parents' permission, go crazy. Glue old action figures, foreign coins, or toy cars to make your own rolling masterpiece. Send a photo of your creation to: "Art Cars" P.O. Box 7771, Burbank, CA 91505 We just might publish it....

It's recess with Jamal and friends! To play you'll need a pair of dice, a pencil, and a token for each player to move. Write players' names on the chart below, and decide who goes first. Roll the dice, move your token to the activity that has that number, and do what it says! Then check off that number next to your name on the chart. If you roll the same number twice, you lose a turn! Roll a twelve, and go again. The first player to do all the activities and check off all the numbers wins! For more fun, can you find C-Bear in the playground scene?

STORM'S PAL...

KATE NUTTON

THE EARTHQUAKE LADY!

Kate may not be a cartoon super hero (few of us are, actually), but she is a real-life scientist who studies and knows lots about earthquakes. She is a seismologist at the California Institute of Technology. You may have seen Kate on television—she's the one reporters often interview after a big California quake. We caught up with Kate between the rocking and rolling and rattled her brain a bit.

TFK: Do you look forward to earthquakes?

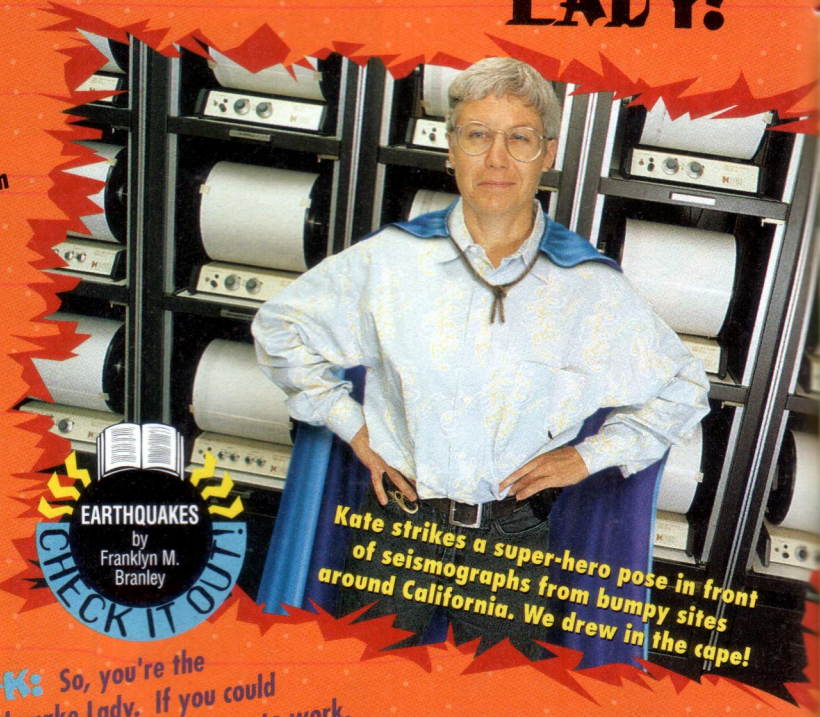
KH: It's true that we learn more from big earthquakes than from the little everyday ones, but I'd sure rather have them out in the middle of the desert—in a place where nobody lives.



Kate strikes a super-hero pose in front of seismographs from bumpy sites around California. We drew in the cape!

TFK: If you could have power over earthquakes, would you?

KH: Well...no. Not unless I understood everything about earthquakes. You never know what the consequences of interfering with nature are. But I think if the earth had no earthquakes, the planet would be completely flat and very boring. Earthquakes are part of the total picture. Here in California we like the varied terrain—the mountains and ocean—so we have to put up with earthquakes. Which means we have to concern ourselves with building safe buildings and with being ready.

TFK: So, you're the Earthquake Lady. If you could wear a super-hero costume to work, what would it look like?

KH: I'd wear a bright blue cape, especially if I could fly. But no lab coat. People assume that I wear one, but I don't.

TFK: When you were a kid, who were your heroes?

KH: I was real interested in the life of Marie Curie. She was the chemist/physicist who discovered radium, won a Nobel prize, and all that. I loved to read about her. As a kid, I was a resident of the library. I was friends with all the librarians.

TFK: If you could control any other aspect of nature—like Storm—would you?

KH: No, nature does what it does for a reason. If I had Storm's powers I might try to convince other people not to pollute the earth and not to destroy the natural places where animals live.

Check out the seismograph. It measures the strength of earthquakes. That's where you get the "7.5 on the Richter scale" stuff. Seismographs measure the three kinds of waves that travel through the earth: P waves (the back and forth push motion), S waves (the swaying sideways motion), and L waves (the up and down long motion).

TFK: How did you decide to be a seismologist?

KH: I didn't actually. I started out studying astronomy. But it turns out there are not too many jobs in that field. So when I was about 25, I figured...well, the earth is a planet so...here I am. But I'd still like to work in astronomy—trying to understand the universe. I'm the curious type!

WEIRD AND ODD WORK AND JOBS

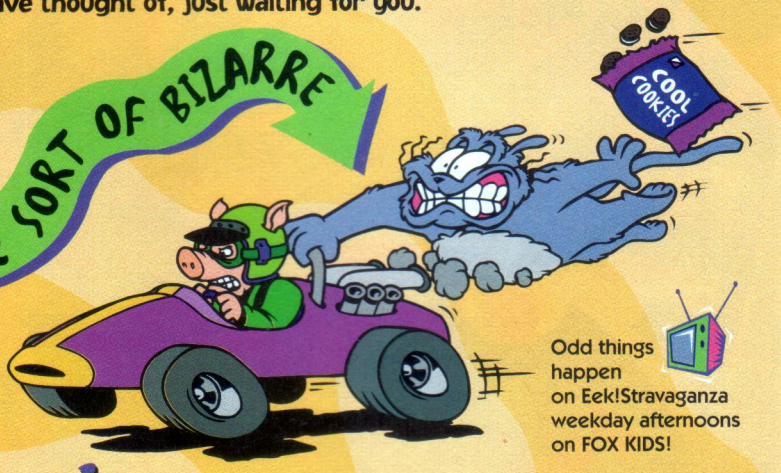
How often do you hear the question "What do you want to be when you grow up?" Firefighter, ballet dancer, or astronaut? Boring! Well, here are a few real careers you may not have thought of, just waiting for you.

TOTALLY GROSS

Got a good sense of smell and a strong stomach? Imagine spending all day, five days a week, with your nose in other people's armpits. Deodorant testers tell whether a deodorant is all it's cracked up to be before it goes out to the stores. They make sure it's OK to say "Works for twelve hours," or "Still works the next day," on T.V. If the deodorant checks out, the company has a slogan...if not, poor deodorant sniffer.

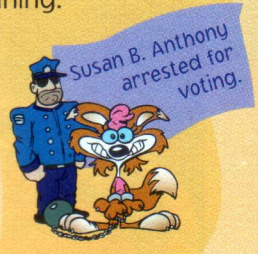
★Jimmy Carter's dad made him wear women's high-button shoes to high school because there were too many in his store to sell.

THE SORT OF BIZARRE

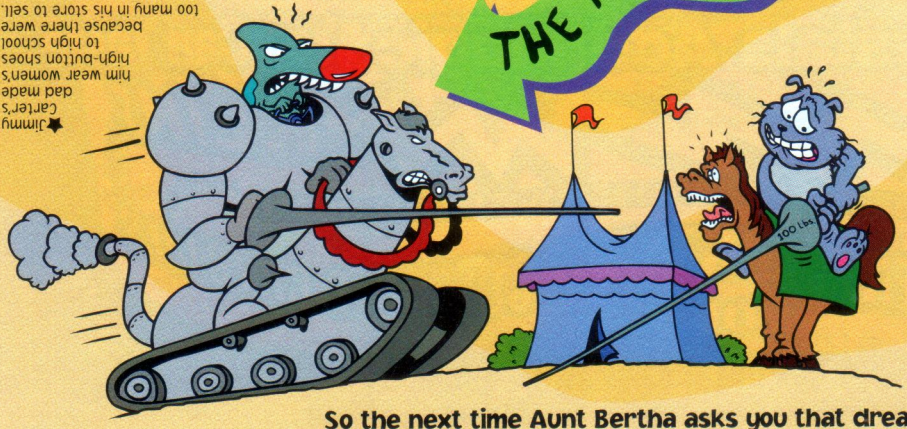


Odd things happen on Eek!Stravaganza weekday afternoons on FOX KIDS!

If you've ever been called a pig, maybe you can relate. Swinemasters race pigs for a living. Pig racing's the fastest growing sport in the United States, or so say those who race them. A pig race lasts only six to eight seconds, but the trick is in the training. The best way to get pigs to do what you want is with cookies—pigs love 'em. They'll roll over, sit up, or run to the ends of the earth for one. If you love animals and cookies, I guess you've found your trade.



THE TOTALLY COOL



Tallyho! If you don't mind wearing tights, you might want to become a jouster. You'll need athletic ability and common sense and it helps if you like horses. There are fairs and medieval restaurants that stage real-life jousts. Their jousters come from everywhere. From college students to struggling actors—anyone who wants days off, since they work knights! (Ha, ha. Get it?) The knights practice every day—and since they're charging at other people carrying ten-foot-long, twenty-pound lances, let's hope practice makes perfect!

So the next time Aunt Bertha asks you that dreaded question...come up with something more creative, like Deodorant Sniffer. Just don't practice your new job on her!

Thanks-giving TERROR!

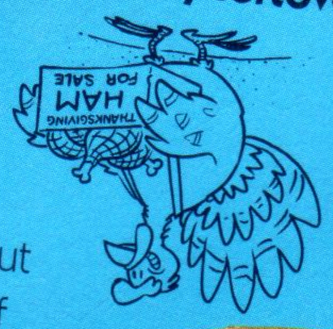
Scared of being grossed out by leftovers? Afraid of what's lurking behind the milk? Well, the days after Thanksgiving can make your fridge a leftover prison if you're not careful. It's time to take control! Bobby has put together a few post-holiday snacks to take the edge off the formerly fixed food fright.

Turkey Bone "Slime" wich

Make a "slime"wich dripping with green "slime" and crunchy with turkey "bones." Serve with leftover "eyes" (olives).

For each sandwich you will need:
3 to 4 tablespoons guacamole, avocado dip or any leftover dip
2 slices bread
handful corn chips or tortilla chips
sliced turkey

Spread one slice of bread with guacamole. Coarsely crumble half the corn chips on top. Put on the turkey. Spread the turkey with the rest of the guacamole. Top with the remaining corn chips and the other slice of bread.



Mad Monster Punch

Watch this drink foam and froth as you pour in the ginger ale.

For each serving you will need a 16-ounce glass. In the order given, place the following in the glass: about 1/2 cup vanilla ice cream, about 3/4 cup cranberry juice cocktail, and about 3/4 cup ginger ale.

★ George Washington ordered his workers to brush his six white horses' teeth daily.

Veggie Candy

Really freak-out adults, volunteer to eat your veggies. But don't say they taste as good as pumpkin pie, or you won't get any for yourself!

1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice or 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger, pinch nutmeg, and pinch cloves (all ground)
3 cups unsifted powdered sugar
1/4 cup cooked yams or candied sweet potatoes, drained
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Orange or red & yellow food coloring

Mix spices with 2 1/2 cups powdered sugar in a big bowl. Mash yams with a fork in a small bowl. Add vanilla and enough food coloring to make yams dark orange. Add small bowl to the large bowl. Mix with a spoon until it's hard to stir. Then dust your hands with powdered sugar and go for it! The candy should be stiff. If not, add more powdered sugar, one tablespoon at a time. Roll into about forty-eight marbles, put on waxed paper, and flatten into quarters. Use a toothpick to make pumpkin designs. Store covered in the fridge.

It's a feast of laughs with FOX KIDS every weekday on Bobby's World!

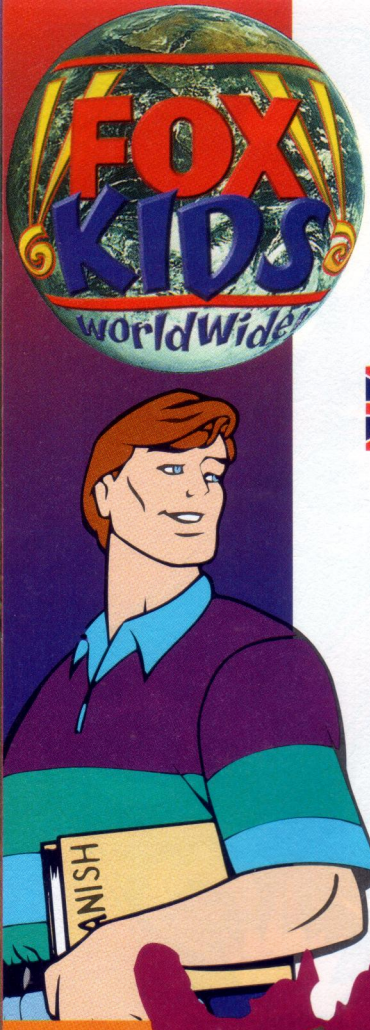
CAH•MIN LAN•GWIDJE

G'day, mates! Peter Parker here, to tell you that FOX KIDS is going to be broadcasting internationally. Your favorite FOX KIDS shows like Casper and Goosebumps will be joining me all around the world. That means that through our Web site, soon you'll be able to communicate with kids from all sorts of countries—of course, you'll need to speak the language. Sure, they speak English in Australia and England...but it's not like any English I've ever spoken. Check out these terms I've picked up to get you started.



ENGLAND

HOW THEY SAY IT	HOW WE SAY IT
biscuits	cookies
loo	bathroom
mate	buddy
holiday	vacation
Father Christmas	Santa Claus
jumper	sweater
brilliant!	great!
telly	TV
jolly good	awesome
I say	say what?

AUSTRALIA

HOW THEY SAY IT	HOW WE SAY IT
dunny	toilet
fair dinkum	honest or true
tooshy	cranky, angry
festie	something gross
spunk	good-looking guy/girl
racked	really embarrassed
pashing	kissing
crook	sick
spanger	dumb mistake
Captain Spanger	king of the spangers
beefy	great fun
chuck a psycho	throw a fit

By the way, you'd better get out your Spanish dictionaries. FOX KIDS is also going to be in South America! Oh, what a web we're weaving!

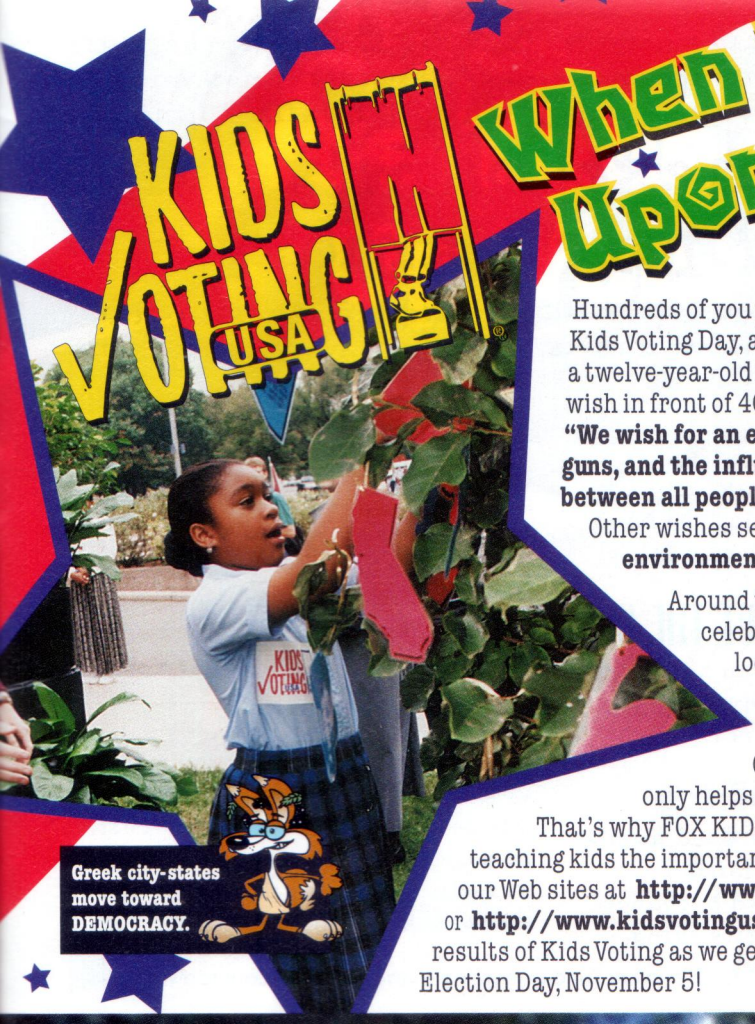
When We Wish Upon A Tree...

KIDS VOTING USA



Greek city-states move toward DEMOCRACY.

Well, you did it!

Hundreds of you sent in your wish for National Kids Voting Day, and on September 24, Keturah Dickerson, a twelve-year-old from Washington, D.C., read the FOX KIDS wish in front of 400 kids at the Smithsonian Institution. "We wish for an end to violence. For an end to the manufacture of guns, and the influence of gangs. We wish for peace and understanding between all people." That made the X-Men very happy, I can tell you.

Other wishes sent in by FOX KIDS included "clean up our environment" and "show kindness to animals."

Around the country that day, students celebrated by planting WishTrees at locations like schools and libraries, and hanging wishes for the country from their branches.

Of course, wishing for something only helps if you're willing to work for it. That's why FOX KIDS and Kids Voting USA are teaching kids the importance of voting. Visit our Web sites at http://www.foxkids.com, or http://www.kidsvotingusa.org/ to see the results of Kids Voting as we get closer to Election Day, November 5!

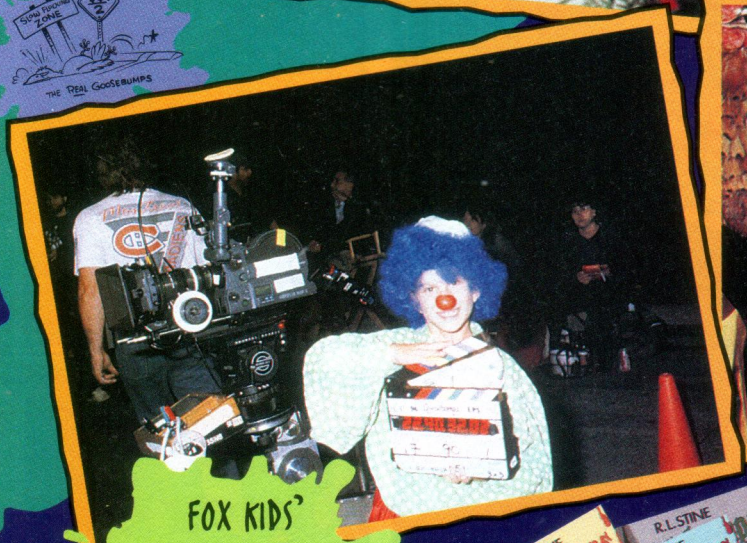
THE FOX KIDS TERROR-IFIC Goosebumps™ Giveaway Contest

First Lady, Abigail Fillmore, puts a library in the White House.

Poor Jack Archer. He had to win The Terror-ific Goosebumps Giveaway on FOX KIDS. If only he hadn't entered...but he did. So he had to tour the F/X studios where all those creepy Goosebumps creatures are created. He had to star in an upcoming hair-raising episode of Goosebumps. Now he'll have to read all those new Goosebumps books he'll be getting until the year 2000, especially the one he was written into! Too bad. Instead, nine-year-old Jack could have stayed at home, counting his toes and picking lint out of his bellybutton. Poor guy. Don't worry, though. You can avoid fun and adventure. You can hide from way-cool prizes and time-of-your-life excitement. All you have to do is never, ever, enter a contest on FOX KIDS. Then you, too, can sit comfortably at home, organizing your sock drawer. Good luck!

Grubbing out with the Master of Mayhem.



FOX KIDS' newest star "clowns around" for the cameras.

Jack went bug-eyed over the creature shop!

★ John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, and James Monroe all died on the Fourth of July.

For a terror-ific time, check out Goosebumps, Saturday mornings on FOX KIDS.

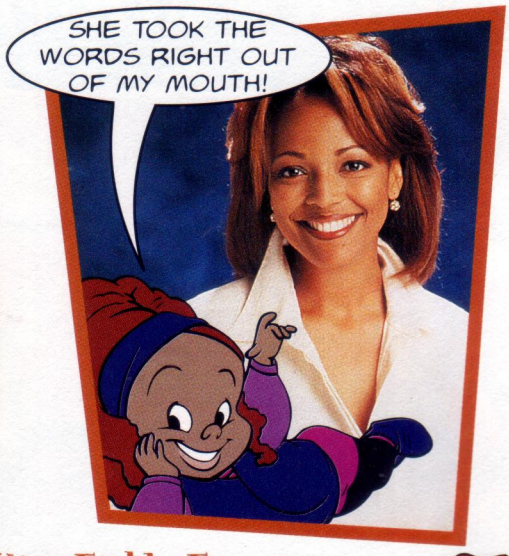
CUT ALONG LINE

MEET the Faces Behind Four Voices From Your Favorite Shows



Kim Fields Freeman as MAYA from C-Bear & Jamal

TFK: What preparation do you have for voice acting?

KF: Well, they let me see a picture of the character, so I can see how she would talk.

TFK: Did you have a favorite stuffed animal?

KF: My nephew gave me a white teddy bear when I got engaged. I still have it on a shelf.

TFK: You were on TV when you were a kid, and now that you're a grown-up you're on TV, too. Did you ever want to do anything else?

KF: Yes, when I was in the fourth grade, I wanted to be a marine biologist.

TFK: Have you ever gotten to work with a person you admired when you were a kid?

KF: I got to work with some of the kids from the very first Mickey Mouse Club on Facts of Life. It was great hearing their stories and seeing their memorabilia.

TFK: If you could talk to any person in history, who would it be?

KF: I'd talk to Jackie Kennedy Onassis. I'd talk to her about womanhood, motherhood, and about being a powerful woman who was classy and well respected.

LOOK WH

Malachi Pearson as CASPER

TFK: Sometimes on cartoons, the kid characters are played by grown-up actors, but you really ARE a kid! That's so awesome! How old are you and what grade are you in?

MP: On CASPER, they decided to go with the real thing! I'm 15 and I just started the tenth grade.

TFK: Can your friends recognize your voice on TV? Do they think it's cool?

MP: A lot of my friends know I'm the voice of Casper, and I think they think it's pretty cool. I like to surf a lot; and thanks to my good friends Scott, Darren, and Alik, most of the other surfers know I'm the voice of Casper, also. I figured it out since they tend to joke with me when I'm catching a wave and yell, "Go for it, Casper!"

TFK: In recording sessions for the Casper cartoon, if all the other actors are grown-ups and you're the only kid, does that make you feel nervous sometimes?

MP: You would think recording with adults might make you nervous, but it doesn't. They're pretty much like kids! They are a whole lot of fun and very talented people.

TFK: What is your favorite subject in school?

MP: Well, I like school and I'm taking a lot of hard classes. I must admit my favorite class is...surfing! I know you don't believe me, but I really do take a surf class. It's considered my PE class.

TFK: What do you want to be when you grow up?

MP: I'm not sure yet. I'm having a great time acting, surfing, skateboarding, bungee-jumping, playing guitar, etc. Hey, like you said, I'm a kid. I still have a few years left to decide.

Townsend Coleman as THE TICK

TFK: In addition to the voice of The Tick, we've heard you on TV in a lot of other places, too. Name some.

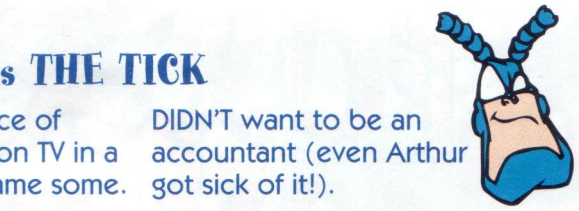
TC: Well, in cartoons, I do the voice of Michaelangelo on the Ninja Turtles! I do commercials for Taco Bell, Home Depot, and Sunny Delight. I'm also the voice of the little red 7-Up dot, a Raid bug, and a Keebler elf.

TFK: Do you have gigantic muscles like The Tick?

TC: No, but I do have a really nice blue suit.

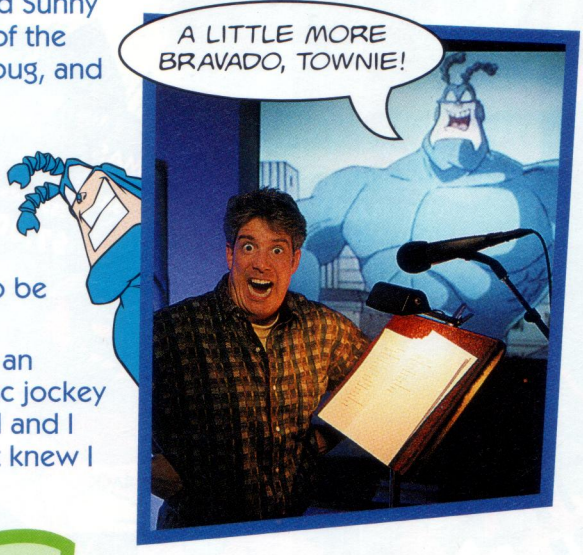
TFK: What did you want to be when you grew up?

TC: I always wanted to be an actor. I thought being a disc jockey on the radio might be cool and I did that for ten years. I just knew I DIDN'T want to be an accountant (even Arthur got sick of it!).



TFK: Did you ever get picked on by a bully?

TC: Yeah, I guess I learned early on that bullies are sad, lonely people and the best thing to do was just ignore them. Of course, never getting to use my own lunch money was a drag.



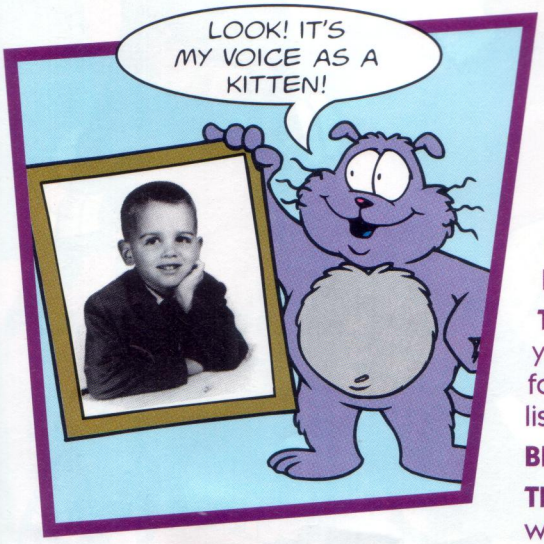
TFK: Some kids like to put playing cards in the spokes of their bicycle wheels to make it sound like a motorcycle. Did you ever do that when you were a kid?

TC: Are you kidding?!! What eight-year-old boy DIDN'T do that? I would use all my mom's clothespins and try to clip ALL 52 CARDS to my wheels! Man, what a racket!

TFK: Do you think it's really possible to swing on a swing set all the way up and around?

TC: Hmmm. I suppose if you pumped REALLY hard you could do the ol' loop-de-loo... but, boy, it sure could mash your melon if you didn't make it all the way over! And besides, once you've achieved that, what's left to do?

Q'S TALKING!



Bill Kopp as EEK! THE CAT

TFK: A lot of FOX KIDS may not know that along with doing the voice of Eek! The Cat you also designed him and co-wrote some early episodes. Which do you like doing better: voice work, drawing, or writing?

BK: I love drawing and writing but they are different from voice work. With voice work you don't have to think at all and I like that. You just have to act like an idiot and I have lots of practice there.

TFK: When you were a kid, did you ever get in trouble at school for drawing in class instead of listening to the teacher?

BK: There was a teacher there?

TFK: Did you watch cartoons when you were a kid?

BK: Yes, I watched cartoons and sometimes I even turned on the TV! My favorites DIDN'T MAKE ANY SENSE!! Which is important, I think.

TFK: When you're doing the slobbery-sounding voice of Eek! The Cat, do you have to wear a bib?

BK: Over the years, I've become an expert slobberer. You just have to wear the right colors so it blends in. A bib? Ha! Where's the sport in that?

TFK: Back when you were in grade school, did you ever have to square-dance in gym class?

BK: Yes, I did and I thought it was really stupid. That guy up there yelling at you, telling you what to do. He could have told us anything and we probably would have done it. "Dosey-doh, tip over backwards and pick your nose!" Yeee-hah!

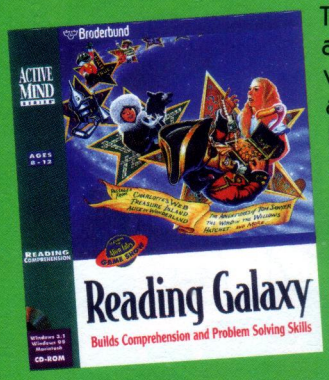
FOX KIDS REVIEW WHAT'S NEW!

Reading Galaxy

from Brøderbund



This game is about aliens saying they wrote books, and asking you questions. If you answer right, you know the humans wrote the story. I like the stories, and the game is easy to learn. Most of the stories are interesting (one is boring). Some of the aliens are funny and cute. I liked Reading Galaxy so much, I didn't want to leave the computer. One last thing...some of the things look easy, but they might be hard, so watch out!

Batman & Robin Adventures

DC Comics

I read "The Shadow of the Phantasm" from the Batman & Robin Adventures comic series. It involved Bruce Wayne's girlfriend acting as the Phantasm. Normally, I don't like comic books, but this one was awesome! It had everything I like: action, mystery, suspense! I'd definitely recommend this to all my friends.

SPOTLIGHT ON PATRICK CONNOLLY

The Guy Who Helps Pick Which Shows Air When Guy

What do you do at FOX KIDS, anyway?

Hey, did my boss write these questions?! Well, I'm the guy who schedules which episodes of your favorite shows will be on TV this week. Frankly, I pick the best shows.

So, Patrick, what do you wear under the skirt?

First of all, mister, it's called a kilt!! And as for what's worn underneath, that remains one of life's mysteries.

Working for FOX KIDS, you must like cartoons, so what is the capital of Paraguay?

If I knew that, I'd be an international spy or manager of a Hotdog on a Stick, and NOT a dearly loved and respected show-scheduling heartthrob. Chaaa...

Where did you learn how to play the bagpipes?

I learned in the outback of Australia. You see, I was raised by a pack of wild dingoes who loved nothing better than to play the bagpipes and eat cheese sandwiches. I still do both, thanks to them. No, really, my mother, who's from Scotland, started teaching me when I was 9.

You started as a receptionist. What was the weirdest call you ever received?

The one from my boss in the next room. She wanted me to do work or something. Very strange.

If you were a candy bar, what would your name be?

Mars. I'm way out there, kind of fluffy, and I may possess some form of life after all.

What should kids do to be more like you, and why?

Carry dental floss. You never know when you may get a huge roast beef sandwich stuck between your teeth. It is especially important for me because of all the glamorous international scheduling conventions I attend on behalf of the network. The canapés can be killer.

Fuddlements

CASPER'S CRYPTIC COMIC

In this comic strip, each letter of the alphabet has been substituted by another one. For example, an N represents a T and so wherever there is an N throughout the comic, you write a T in the blank above the N. We've given you some letters to get you started. Also look at punctuation and letter patterns for clues. GOOD LUCK!

CARMEN'S CURIOUS CODED CAPER!

HELP US, FELLOW DETECTIVES!

Carmen has been stealing secret documents from all over the world. We found her notes on nine places she's been to so far and it looks like her tenth stop is going to be either IRELAND, MEXICO, OR SUDAN. We know there is a connection of some kind between these nine countries and based on what that connection is, we should be able to figure out the answer, but we're stuck! It's a tough one! One more clue: we think the common link is in the country NAMES.

The biggest name in mystery is Carmen Sandiego—weekdays on FOX KIDS!

ASK JACKIE?

Before you start your homework or review for a test, read the tips below to help you hit the books.

Do your homework at the same time every day. After school is best.

A chair at a desk or table is the best place to sit when studying. On your bed you may relax too much.

Take notes. You will remember something better if you write it down.

Take a break every 15 minutes. This will keep your mind fresh.

Never study under a dim light. A bright light will protect your eyes from strain.

Tell your friends that you will be studying. Invite your friends to study with you.

Avoid interruptions, inform before you start.

Take your own study quiz. Take it again the next morning before you go to school.

Never put off studying. Learning doesn't happen overnight. Cramming is not the way to learn the material long term.

Get a good night's sleep! Good luck!
